

WRECKING THE RAILWAYS

A HUNDRED thousand Canadian railway employees are slated for another wage-slash, of ten per cent, following the wage-cut, time-outs, mileage-cuts and other pay-cuts to which they have been subjected in the last two years.

That is a matter of very direct and very real concern to Edmonton and every other railway centre in the Dominion. It means a further stoppage in the circulation of money, less buying at the stores, less demand for farm products and manufactured goods, a further slackening all along the chain of economic inter-dependence that links men in all occupations from the farm to the factory with a large class of regularly-paid consumers.

This is a further step in the process of deflation that was loosed upon the railways, as it was loosed upon every other business interest in Canada, by the trade-destroying policies of our national Government. TWO YEARS OF BENNETT POLICIES HAVE WRECKED THE NATIONAL RAILWAYS. TWO MORE YEARS OF THE SAME POLICIES WOULD BANKRUPT THE C. P. R. And as yet there is no sign of any intention at Ottawa to go out of the wrecking business.

THE connection between the trade policies of the Government and the misfortunes of the railways is clear and direct. Railways live on traffic. The amount of traffic depends upon the amount of buying and selling Canadians do abroad and at home. The earnings of the railways have kept pace on the downhill path with the slump in our trade inside and outside Canada.

Starting something more than two years ago the tariff of Canada has been raised repeatedly with the deliberate intent of shutting out imports, and with foreknowledge that to shut out imports meant to kill exports. The exclusive tariff has been a boon both ways. For the year ending with April, 1931, Canada's foreign trade totalled $1,668,000,000. For the year ending with April, 1932, Canada's foreign trade amounted to $862,000,000. That is one of the two reactions from trade policy that has struck and crippled the railways.

Internal trade has suffered in like manner. The dollar was kept pegged to gold. Everything had to go abroad, prices, wages and values. Unemployment spread and killed buying at home, as the exclusive tariff killed selling abroad and stopped the income from exports. That is the other reaction from trade policy, or impolicy, that has destroyed the earning power and threatens the solvency of the railways.

CUTTING wages and firing men is not a matter of railway policy. That is an expedient thrust upon the railways, as upon employers generally, by circumstances which are the results of folly not their own. It gets nowhere, and supplies neither a solution nor promise of a solution of railway difficulties.

What the railways need is what the country needs; a scaling down of tariffs and a clearing of the trade channels that will allow international commerce to revive, along with a revaluing of the dollar and a circulation of new currency that will bring life to business in Canada. WHEN THOSE THINGS ARE DONE THE RAILWAYS WILL STOP CUTTING PAY, DISCHARGING MEN AND CANCELLING TRAINS. UNTIL THERE IS UNLEASHED TRAFFIC CANNOT COME BACK.

Britain Refuses To Commit Herself To New Gold Bloc Plan

Move Described as Effort to Split Great Britain and U.S.

LONDON, June 27.—Great Britain was underlined in well-known cables this morning as she has refused to commit herself to a new European gold bloc scheme under which British and continental currencies would be stabilized irrespective of the desires of the United States.

In response British circles this move, headed by France, was described as an effort to establish a new bloc of currencies which would be unable to deal independently on stabilization.

Great Britain, it was stated, wants to keep her hands free so she can deal directly with United States on stabilization when the proper time comes.

MEETING TIGHT

Britain's position at the moment, therefore, is that she is sitting tight. Meanwhile gold bloc backers were meeting again late in the day to consider what new move they could make to force stabilization.

Vernon Willis Paints Picture of Death of Dog to Dead Master

By Vernon Willis
VEGEBVILLE, Alta., June 27.—A simple country lad stepped into the witness box today and painted a picture of the death of a dog, the death of his master, when Vernon Willis gave evidence at the Tuesday morning session of the trial of William McLean of Veggieville, a charge of murdering Walter J. Farnell, Manville farmer, last May.

It was young Willis who first told the body of the dead farmer, face down in a ditch, a bullet had drilled him through the back as he stepped out of his door.

It was noon of Sunday, October 2, when the boy found the body. He had been working for a neighbor.

Will He Join Hunt?

Here is Frank Hawks, famous American speed pilot and holder of many cross-country air records, who will be asked to join in the search for Jimmie Matern, lost on a flight around the world some years in the vicinity of Alaska. Hawks visited Edmonton two years ago with the International air tour.

Wheat Conference Saved By Threats Of Price Debacles

Chaos Would Follow If U. S. and Canada "Dumped" Wheat Surplus

LONDON, June 27.—What one of the "big four" chief delegates called an "act of providence" has so altered the wheat situation that it has averted a world price slump.

When the "big four" delegates, asked for and received information as to the near breakdown of the negotiations at the morning session of the conference, the "big four" are Canada, United States, Australia and Argentina.

When he received information concerning the rise in the price of wheat on world markets, presumably because of adverse crop reports, Mr. McLean professed satisfaction with the progress of the negotiations.

Alberta Rumored

Reports Circulating at Pokena Following Visit of Premier

PONOKA, June 27.—Strong rumors are in circulation here that a provincial general election will be called before Christmas. The rumors follow a recent visit of Premier J. E. Brown, and a recent conference with a number of the leading supporters and other U.F.A. heads in this riding.

It is believed here that the forthcoming U.F.A. caucus in Edmonton will discuss the matter of the provincial election and also a proposed cabinet reorganization. In any event the political plot is showing all evidence of beginning to take shape. The general impression here is that a provincial election will be attempted.

Sponsors Appeal For Frank Hawks To Join In Search

One of Lost Aviator's Backers Confident He is Alive—Wealthy Brooklynite Sponsors Hunt From Base at Nome, Alaska—$5,000 Reward Offered

NEW YORK, June 27.—The Texas Company, for which Frank Hawks is technical adviser, declined to say today whether it would approve a flight by Hawks to search for Jimmie Matern pending receipt of a direct appeal from Matern's backers. The backers announced in Chicago they were going to make such an appeal.

Hawks was in his office here when news of the appeal was received. He made no comment.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Sponsors of the round-the-world flight which Jimmie Matern attempted announced today they planned to appeal to Frank Hawks to search for the lost aviator. The expedition was headed by Attorney S. A. Sackett, one of the backers, said he was confident Matern still lived, probably stranded in the Arctic and struggling to reach some means of communication.

Sackett said that he, Harry Johnston, Vladimir Matern and Jack Clark, all of Chicago, probably would join in the appeal to Hawks. He planned to communicate with Hawks immediately.

"I believe Hawks is well equipped for such an undertaking," Sackett said. "He probably could fly from the United States to Nome, Alaska, in a matter of days, and over the route Matern intended taking from Russia to America."

"We are confident Matern has not perished. He was capable and had a good plane. Most important of all, he was not foolhardy. There might have been a mishap, but we all believe Jimmie would have been able to make a landing under any conditions."

NEW YORK, June 27.—An air expedition in search of Jimmie Matern, round the world flyer lost somewhere between Siberia and Alaska, will leave here Wednesday, it was announced Monday. The expedition was composed of personal friends of the missing aviator and will make a halt at Edmonton enroute to Alaska.

Sponsored by Irving Friedman, Brooklyn lawyer, the expedition will fly to Nome, Alaska, and establish a base there from which an extensive search will be conducted.

In addition to Friedman, Friedman has offered the flyers a reward of $5,000 if they find Matern alive.

The plane will be piloted by Bill Alexander, who has had three years as a test pilot in Alaska and is familiar with conditions there.

Other members of the crew will be Fred Peterson, pilot of the Peacock, mechanics at Floyd Bennett airport, and Thomas A. Ryan, New York motorist, who has volunteered to take part in the search.

WHEAT ZOOMS TO SHOW NET GAIN 9 CENTS

Second Ascension Adds Five Cents to Monday's Close

WINNIPEG, June 27.—After plunging around in some uncertainty today after yesterday's record session, wheat futures prices shot upward to a second ascension today, ending with a net gain of nine cents.

With July at 79c, October at 81c, and December at 83c.

Prices showed a gain of 4 1/2 to 5c.

65-CENT BUSHEL

At the December delivery tipped the 35-cent higher level, its high for the day, it reached a point last quoted on the Winnipeg board on Oct. 1, 1928. And at today's closing prices futures have scored gains of approximately two cents.

But buying, as in yesterday's session, was almost entirely speculative. Chicago traders held the 35-cent higher level, as values surged upwards in their market. Local speculators of every variety followed their lead.

At the close of the session, the selling market was almost entirely speculative. Chicago traders held the 35-cent higher level, as values surged upwards in their market. Local speculators of every variety followed their lead.

and the United States today is more acute than at any time previously. Holland, Switzerland and Belgium agreed to join France in demanding that Great Britain declare herself ready to peg the sterling to the gold currencies of Great Britain, whose decision will be of vital importance, sits tight for the time being. She does not wish to stabilize the pound if the American dollar is to be left to find its own level, nor does she wish to stabilize the pound if the gold currencies of gold with consequent depreciation that will wipe the advantages she has been enjoying in world markets.

The issue lies between the American and the European countries, and Great Britain may leave them to fight it out. The United States declines to stabilize for the time being and only endanger net international monetary programme. She wanted conference to go ahead with embarrassing business. France insists that no tariff or import quotas will lead to nothing until leading currencies are stabilized.

THE ECONOMIC PARLEY GIVES PROMISE TO AID IN WORLD OF GREAT CHAOS

BRITAIN SOUGHT TO AID CURRENCY BLOC AT CONFERENCE

Big Crowd Awaits To See Envoys

Plan Evolved to Exclude American Dollar in Opposition to Price-Raising Program—Feelings Are Punning High.

LONDON, June 27.—France is bringing tremendous pressure on Great Britain to help the pound sterling to the franc, it was learned on high authority last night, in an effort to form a stabilized currency bloc with the United States dollar excluded.

The French were laboring to prevent Holland and Switzerland from leaving the gold standard as an international unit of exchange, bank operators were blamed in gold bloc quarters for today's heavy fall in the guilder from 8.45 to 8.58 Dutch guilders to the pound.

Such a stabilization, the high authority said, would mean direct opposition to the American price-raising programme which the gold bloc believes would mean depreciation of their currency.

The British answer to the French move has not yet been made, it was learned.

THE BRITISH, IT WAS SAID, were heavily in debt, sterling is certain the rise of prices in the gold bloc would be sufficient to offset the depreciation.

If prices fall to rise high enough to prevent American dollars from being too cheaply in world markets, the British said, they were declared, willing to fix the pound at a definite point.

EXHAUSTING GOLD

The French plan would settle the franc and sterling rate at the "natural level," the financial authorities asserted, and it would mean the de facto stabilization of the pound on the franc.

The French believe Europe should go ahead and stabilize despite America's refusal to peg the dollar to the franc.

Facing against "The International Speculative Ring" ran high in the gold bloc, the French said, "I would like to hang the entire ring."

LAGOON HOLDS BODIES OF 2 SPAN FIERERS

Airmen Who Recently Made Atlantic Spin Found Dead

MEXICO CITY, June 27.—The federal minister of interior announced last night the bodies of Captain Mariano Barbera and Lieutenant Joaquin Collet, Spanish trans-Atlantic flyers, were found in a lagoon near the mouth of the Rio Grande, after an attempted flight from Havana, and the wreckage of their plane had been found in a lagoon in the state of Tabasco.

The bodies of the two airmen were found by the Spanish consul at Mexico City, who said.

Accompanying Captain Barbera was a pilot named L. A. Machuca, who was also killed.

The aviators, who recently flew across the Atlantic from Sevilla, Spain, to Camaguey, Cuba, took off early last Tuesday from the Cuban capital for this city. They were last reported flying over Tabasco.

The wreckage of the plane was found 100 miles west of Camaguey, and the bodies of the two airmen were reported about 10 a.m. last Tuesday.

Special to Edmonton Bulletin

MINNEAPOLIS, June 27.—The shabby home of the Franklin Muzzy Crosby on Park avenue is not as gay this summer as usual, nor is the Crosby's beautiful country estate at Waukegan, Lake Michigan.

Several of the first of the servants don't seem to have as much to do in the house.

Perhaps it is because Crosby, hitherto to all these glances, no surroundings, and to her father's $100,000 fortune as well, is not home this summer. She is leaving it all as young girls have always seemed willing to do for love, a husband, and a kitchen.

This June romance has brought together two young ladies apparently widely separated by circumstance. For the bride-to-be is Charles Beecher Hugen, who worked his way through Yale and is now assistant in the Sterling Memorial Library. His $45-a-week income from this work is about the kind it had.

CRUISED AT THE FROM

It all began at a Yale prom three years ago. Miss Crosby was studying on the piano and her father was an accomplished musician. All from which she was playing, couples circled the hall, and the college world was on parade and strutting its very special stuff, they met.

But Crosby's immediate victims, during the following months no track met was complete without Crosby in the field, and she was working hard to win his "Y." His name was Hogan.

But not even their closest friends suspected a real romance. It was all a matter of the moment, it all. Not a few minutes later, Crosby had captured many with her own eyes, she was extremely gay. She was extremely gay. She was extremely gay.

PARENTS APPROVE

The marriage of Crosby and Hugen was approved by the parents of the bride, the late Mrs. Charles Beecher Hugen.

JUNE ROMANCES—NUMBER THREE

But that is the romance that goes with love, and Carolyn Crosby is not the first pretty young being who has been married to a millionaire. She is not the first pretty young being who has been married to a millionaire.

Economic Parley Gives Promise To Aid in World of Great Chaos

National Debts Are Holding Spotlight

By GEORGE HAMILTON
LONDON, June 27.—The economic conference of this week, which is the first of the order in a chaotic world.

Countries multiply in warfare, money, groups and blocs, show increased activity, and the world is in a state of chaos.

NEED OF PROBE

Before a monetary subcommittee Mr. Chamberlain declared the experience of the last 10 years has shown that the world is in a state of chaos.

Other speakers similarly urged the necessity for some permanent body which would act as a clearing house for the world's debts.

IS NOT ENOUGH

Senator Cameron, the only American member of the United States delegation, held that price-raising by monetary means as to the security of the world.

HUNGARY'S PLAN

The British Chancellor suggested creation of some authoritative and impartial body which would give advice. It must be a body which would be able to act as a clearing house for the world's debts.

Other speakers similarly urged the necessity for some permanent body which would act as a clearing house for the world's debts.

HELP AND SELF-HELP

Edmonton's Employment Service Plan has secured a distinct success. As a result, more than $100,000 is to be spent in improvement of one kind or another to homes and business premises, improvements which were not contemplated until the movement was launched. As the season is yet
young, there is a prospect that the amount may be doubled before the snow flies.

Aside from the direct benefits, this is a rather stunning demonstration of the effect of a effort can do to combat unemployment and slack employment conditions. Had the city undertaken to spend $100,000 in some new enterprise that would have been limited to business premises, improvements which were not contemplated until the
movement was launched. As the season is yet
young, there is a prospect that the amount may be doubled before the snow flies.

Large number of individual citizens are money spent under the plan is not being given away. It is not being borrowed and added to the city debt. There is no added community obligation of interest bill because of it. The wages are beneficial to quite the same extent as though it were public money put into some essential or non-essential undertaking. And for the money spent each participant benefits to the full in money or convenience, through the improvement of his property.

MR. WALLACE TO BAT

Mr. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture for the United States, sent wheat prices skyrocketing in Chicago and Kansas City by a threat that "if Australia, the Argentine and Canada do not cut the light in London" and agree to cut down the production of wheat, the United States may "resist" in dumping in surplus wheat into the world market at a price as low as 20 cents a bushel while holding the domestic price around $1.

Just where the dumping would be done, he neglected to say. Most of the wheat in the world, including the great wheat importing countries, have been surrounded themselves with surrounding laws which prevent them from doing their markets being flooded with wheat, or any other commodity, offered at a price lower than the going price in the country of production and export.

Wallace of course knows that, but may have thought his hearers didn't. He was very effective for home consumption.

Mr. Wallace also neglected the point that inflation is a game two or more can play at. If it is to be a game, that which it won't, Canada can print paper dollars as fast as the United States can the home price to any desired level, and dump
two bushels for one in the world market.

But what a fine game it would be to play that was to throw in the faces of other countries at a time when a world economic conference is trying to salvage the wreckage of a ten year commercial war, brought about by just such bluffing and ballyhoo as Mr. Secretary Wallace got off his stage on Wednesday last.

Mr. Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State, whose conduct at London has been an admirable blend of frankness, courtesy and reserve, with that President Roosevelt would put his belivable Secretary of Agriculture on a chain until the conference is over.

WHAT TO DO WITH THE SURPLUS

The Yangtze and the Yellow rivers have overflowed, and 40,000,000 Chinese are threatened by famine. Should the floods continue one of the most terrible disasters in the world's history will be recorded. The magnitude of the impending tragedy is imagination. Four times the population of Canada may be wiped out.

A world economic conference is being held in London, and is wrestling with the problem of what to do with a world surplus of wheat 300 million bushels greater than a safe and normal carry-over.
The best the delegates have been able to think of
is a scheme to cut down production until the excess supply is consumed.

Here is a possible alternative, provided for them by nature, and urged by every consideration of human feeling. The world's surplus of wheat should be sold to the world's hungry. The surplus of food-factors for China, India, and other the floods continue and famine develops. They should welcome the opportunity to get rid of the surplus with a minimum of bother and expense, while living up to their professions of a genuine interest in human welfare.

The wheat could be sold, through exercise of government authority, at a bargain price, and wheat producers would benefit through the reduction of the surplus. It would be more quickly and justly as really as though it were cut down to repressive regulation of crop acreages over three years to come.

Debated among the countries whose governments claim they want to raise wheat prices, the best would be to sell. And this could be done better, cheaper or surer way to establish kinder feelings and a more sympathetic understanding between the peoples of the Orient and the Occi-

It is not expected that the steamer Northwest

It is worthy of note that while we at Edmonton

MAN HIS OWN STAR

Our fate's our hands; at one's self we strike dead,

These M'Divani brothers from the little Swiss

A WARNING TO THE WICKED
On this date, in 1830, on the occasion of the accession of William IV, there was issued a proclamation
"For the encouragement of piety and virtue, and for the preventing and punishing of vice, profane and immorality."

It was duly proclaimed in the British colonies in America and was a curious document viewed by modern eyes, a combination of the spiritual and political authorities of the time. At the outlet it called attention to the indispensable duty "To preserve and advance the honor and service of Almighty God and of the Empire of Great Britain and to suppress all vice, profane and immoral, and immorality, which are so highly displeasing to God, so great a reproach to Our Religion and Government, and by means of the frequent ill examples of the practices thereof have so fatal a tendency to the corruption of many of our loving subjects, and otherwise religiously and virtuously disposed, and which (if not timely remedied) may justly draw down the Divine vengeance on Us and Our Kingdom."

The proclamation went on:
"We do hereby declare Our Royal purpose and resolution to discourage and suppress all immoral, profane and immoral, and immorality in all persons of whatever degree or quality within Our realm, and by means of "distinguish persons of piety and virtue who give good example to the utmost contrivance to the discontinuance persons of disolute and debauched lives,
that they, being by that means reduced to shame and contempt
for their loose and evil actions and behavior, may be also enforced the sooner to reform their ill habits and practices."

The proclamation was drastic.
"We do strictly enjoin and prohibit all Our loving subjects, of what degree or quality sever,
from playing on the Lord's Day
at dice, cards, or any other game whatsoever, either in public or private houses. We do hereby require and command them, and every of them, devoutly and reverently to attend the worship of God on every Lord's Day, on pain of Our highest displeasure, and of being proceeded against with the utmost rigor that may be law."

The judges and other officers were ordered to be very strict in the enforcement of the law and to punish all persons guilty of excessive drinking, blasphemy, profane swearing and cursing, and other offences against the laws of the Lord's Day, to suppress all gambling houses, and other low and disorderly houses, and to
"likewise that they take effectual care to prevent all persons keeping taverns, chocolate houses, coffee-houses, from selling wine, chocolate, etc., or other liquors, or refreshment, or gaming guests to be or remain in such their houses in the Day of Divine Service on the Lord's Day, or they will answer to the Almighty God and upon pain of Our highest displeasure."

Lord Edward Montagu who is known in Edmonton, and who recently got into the headlines over the ill-fated Wandersville expedition, has become a victim of the law.

A companion, telling a weird story of ill usage
and starvation on a rocky island near Victoria, said that he had seen a man who had been a member of the party. It looked as if of promise to the newspapers at the time that he was a victim of the law.

The story, however, faded away like mist before the sun when his lordship made explanation to a sympathetic reporter.

His lordship, it appears had bought the little craft and spent a few weeks cruising about by himself when he was suddenly explained that they were old English public schoolboys down on their luck. One was then helping the police search evidence in liquor prosecutions. Said his lordship:

"They were pretty hard and I fell sorry for them. So, you see, is an old English schoolboy who was a member of the party. I was made a victim of the law. I was I'm from Marrow myself, and though I think it's a much better school than Eton, I want to say to you that I am a victim of the law of helping him. After all, we were both public school boys."

Then came two more English public school boys who were on their beam ends to avoid the party, and a recital of how one of them got a bottle of whiskey and became "blotto" and had to be subdued.

"That's really the whole story," said Montagu. "It has taught me a lesson. I won't play the Good Samaritan to Etonians any more."

The marvel is that any Harrow boy would so far forget himself as to show kindness to an Eton-
ian. Between the two great English public schools there is a long-standing rivalry. It was the
for the March 1818 expedition in France, a party of old Etonians sent a wire to the Eton-Harrow game, which greatly amused the military press.
It read, "Gott strafe Harrow," and bore a dozen signatures.

Health and Diet Advice

By Dr. Frank McCue.

TRY THE "CHERRY CURE"
I recommend cherries to readers who are looking for a food that will build up the blood. In order to secure the best results it would be well to use the straight cherries, not the few varieties of nothing else but cherries. The way you are to do it is to eat the fresh, ripe cherries, simply taking them as they come, as dessert.

This cherry diet is really not a strict fast, and the patients find that the cherries keep them full enough so that they do not miss other food. As a general rule, they enjoy the "cherry cure" in Europe where the patient eats nothing else but grapes and is benefited. Once the average person gets started on the cherry diet he develops a craving
for the fruit which is satisfied in no other way.
In eating such a large quantity of cherries the patient secures a sufficient amount to improve the quality of the blood. The "cherry cure" also cleanses the blood stream to a remarkable degree.
Cherries build up the blood, the reason of the food minerals which they contain, among which are the following: Iron, calcium, phosphorus, potassium, sodium, magnesium, etc. They also contain about 10% fruit sugar and malic acid. The tart taste is derived from the fruit acids but the minerals which do no harm to the body.

The only way you have of knowing for yourself
that they are there is the improvement in the way you feel. Even a short fruit diet of cherries will give you a feeling of being full, and you will be happy to leave your work and feel more energetic, more able to tackle your work and better able to enjoy your life. Of course, the daily enema is taken during the time you are using the exclusive cherry diet.

The best lotion to build up healthy blood can only come from the foods we eat. Fruits are especially fine blood-builders and of all the fruits, cherries are the best. They are the only fruits which are so rich in minerals and vitamins. They are especially fine blood-builders and of all the fruits,
cherries are the best. They are the only fruits
which are so rich in minerals and vitamins.

A good rule for you to follow when you eat cherries is to make a meal of them, taking no other food. For example, you may make the noon meal entirely of cherries. You may also eat them with other food, but you must not eat them with other food. You must not eat them with other food.

Another way to use cherries is to eat them late in the day, just before bedtime. When the stomach has emptied itself of the evening meal. You will find that the mild fruit acids leave the mouth feeling clean and refreshed. In spite of their containing fruit acids, cherries are truly an alkaline forming food, since the mineral ash which they leave in the body is an alkaline ash. For this reason, they have an extra benefit for those seeking to overcome acidity, and might be compared with other fruits in this respect, which are also spend time for overcoming acidity and making the blood more alkaline.

Cherries should not be combined with starches
and fat, and that reason is that starches and fats are not good. I do not advise adding them to any type of meal, but find that they do their cleaning, purifying and refreshing best when they are taken alone or with milk.

The cherry season occurs during this time of the year, just when you need it in its preparation time for you to eat all the cherries you want to eat. You will find that cherries are getting hot and calcium. You can't get too much of either one of them from your fruit and both elements are as necessary to you as air and sleep.

Two Hours Necessary to Select Men in Parille

Murder Case

VERMILION, June 27.—It took two hours to pick a jury at the trial of the accused in the murder of James J. Parille, which opened before Mr. Justice Erwin in the court house here on Tuesday morning. When William McLean of Tennessee was charged with the slaying of Walter J. Parille of Manville.

The young man accused and his father, Kenneth McLean, brought here after a long manhunt by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, were first jointly charged. Neil Primrose, defence counsel, immediately objected. James J. Parille, of the attorney-general's department, who was present at the trial, admitted that the crown had no objection to the joint charge, but then ordered that the accused be tried apart and the younger McLean was selected to be the first to go on trial on the murder charge.

The grounds of the court house were crowded long before the opening hour of the trial, but none of general public were admitted at first.

The entire room of the court was filled with the 80 men who had been called for jury service. Flashes of scarlet and blue uniformed mounted police officers and men made a ring of color in the crowd.

MAN MANICED

The crowd surged forward outside the two-alleyed court house and the grounds manhandled the men through the grounds manhandled, and guarded by a line of mounted police in blue and bayonet.

William McLean, who has just reached the age of 21, looked more like a well groomed young bank clerk than the "Panther Woman" of tradition. He had pale, clear-cut features, a square jaw, and a high forehead. He held fair hair and a long, straight nose.

The 30-year-old, slouched and though he wore a good suit of clothes, he was a man who looked like a laborer. He had a round head and a high forehead. His cheeks were so hollow that the line from the corner of his right eye to the angle of the jaw looked like a long scar. His hard gray eyes were a striking feature of his face.

—They were like the direct, unwavering eyes of a wild animal.

A thrashing of the cheek muscles on the part of the older McLean, a man of 40, showed that the son, the only signs of strain.

CHATTED CASUALLY

They chatted casually with each other in the prisoners' dock and with Mr. Justice Erwin, who was eagerly to some low-levelled direction that he gave them.

Montreal to Vancouver in 24 Hours Important Prospect

REGINA, June 27.—Aerial transport service between Montreal and Vancouver on a schedule of less than 24 hours is just one of the more important prospects of the future in the air, according to Lt. Col. G. A. Drew.

Lt. Col. Drew was the speaker at a joint luncheon of the Regina Board of Trade and Rotary club members Monday.

Col. Drew arrived by flying from Brandon Sunday evening, flying the famous gyro motor "CF-AAA" of the Canadian flying circus, flown by George Ross, secretary of the board of trade.

He was to go to Moose Jaw Monday afternoon, Saskatoon the next morning.

George Ross will leave Col. Drew at Edmonton and proceed to Vancouver, where he will be met by the Canadian Airways, which will fly to Great Bear Lake and return, rejoining Mr. Ross in Edmonton, July 10.

Grants Permitted to Unemployed Dine

Official Estimate 5,000 Jobs Will Enjoy Dine July 8

Commissioners Empowered to Grant Free Street Car Transportation

Unemployed organizations in the city received permission from city council Monday night to stage a monster picnic at Borden Park on Saturday, July 8, which officials estimated will be attended by about 8,000 jobs.

Commissioners were empowered to make certain concessions to the committee in charge of arrangements for gathering, including free street car transportation to the grounds, five-cent admission for children to the city swimming pool in the park, use of buildings, etc.

It was decided that the band concert scheduled for Sunday July 8 should be advanced one day so that the unemployed might enjoy the music on the picnic.

Jan Lakeman, city relief case, spoke on behalf of the unemployed organizations sponsored by the picnic.

Legislative Redistribution Committee Adjourns
Sessions Here

After considering a mass of information gathered from many sources, the legislative committee on redistribution which met at the government buildings on Monday under the chairmanship of George MacLachlan, U.F.A., Pembina, adjourned to meet later at the call of the chairman. When a further meeting is held, there are indications that organizations or individuals may be asked to appear.

A large part of Monday's deliberations was devoted to the question of the increase between the present basis of much study, as did a comparison of the average population of other provinces, referred to by the committee.

In Saskatchewan the average population per member in 1926 was 14,444 and in 1930 was 15,856.

In a comparison of average population per member in city ridings the figures given by the committee were as follows:

In Alberta city constituency figures are as follows:

Calgary, with 46,000 seats, has an average population per member of 14,444. Edmonton, with 20,000 seats, has an average population per member of 14,444. Lethbridge, with 10,000 seats, has an average population per member of 14,444. Medicine Hat, with 5,000 seats, has an average population per member of 14,444. OPPOSITION VOICED

Ald. J. H. Ogilvie voiced himself in opposition to the proposal to allow the picketers free use of the street car service. He suggested that the unemployed march from a downtown point, or some central gathering place, to Borden Park.

Continuing, he said he had reason to believe that the unemployed would be going to the gathering at the picnic.

The serpent wigwagged 'round and round as it moved slowly o'er the ground. The Tinkies watched it closely and then Scooty said, "How queer! 'I've seen big serpents in a book, but never one like that one. Look! It's heading right toward us and it'll veer very soon be here."

"We all had best be set to run. This whole thing may not be much more than a snake."

They all thought for a moment that the thing was doing stunts.

Next came the best surprise of all. The Tinkies heard a faint voice call, "All right, men! Everyone on one side! There's work that must be done."

"Just leave our serpent his right here. There's not a thing to be done."

Premier Bracken Pours Hot In Stevens Camp

MINISTER OF TRADE HANDED WARM REBUKE

Smashing Rejoinder Given to Statements Concerning Relief Funds

WINNIPEG, June 27.—"If the newspaper report is correct, the Hon. Mr. Stevens is more concerned with a partisan attack on me than with supplying the public with information," Premier John Bracken, Manitoba, stated Monday in reply to a declaration of Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce, that the Manitoba premier "was not playing the same with the federal government" in the matter of unemployment relief.

"He apparently thinks that a personal attack on me is the best way to answer the Dominion's refusal to loan at five per cent or less, the money necessary for relief purposes," the premier's statement said. "He has made definite statements which cannot be allowed to remain unanswered."

NOT SO SUCCESSFUL

"The first is that his government has been successful in co-operating with the three western provinces but in Manitoba no reciprocal co-operation was forthcoming. If we have requested the demands of the municipalities and the province have vigorously taken care of the other provinces, it was only because we realized how serious the situation was and still is."

Mr. Stevens says that a "little less childish veering would be in order," he presumes he means by this that he does not wish me to go before his government's true picture of the suffering and distress in the province caused by unemployment.

The simple facts are that everything the provincial government requested the recent convention held at Ottawa has been repeatedly requested by every western province for the last year.

AS TO BORROWING

"The Dominion can borrow money at 4 1/2 per cent or less. The provinces cannot borrow at less than 6 1/2 per cent or even higher rates."

The municipalities either cannot borrow at all or can only do so at much higher rates. A difference of 1 1/2 per cent on the $500,000 loan requested for the municipalities and the province would mean a saving to the municipalities and the province of $750,000 a year during the life of the bond.

"As to the statement that I have repeatedly used the unemployment financing issue for political purposes. The most bitter enemy of the government has never charged that any of these funds were used for political purposes, and not one dollar has been. Discussion with the Dominion concerning the financing of relief is a matter of public record and in no instance indicate any attempt or desire to treat this very serious problem in a partisan manner."

SCOUT TO TAKE TRIP TO ARCTIC

CALGARY, June 27.—Patrol Leader Eric Liddell was rolling eastward over the prairies last night enroute to realize one of the ambitions of life—to get to out-of-the-way places.

Liddell, a Vancouver youth, passed through Calgary yesterday on his way to Montreal to board the S.S. Neopoc to make a four months tour in the Canadian Arctic. He was awarded the trip when he was proclaimed Canada's best all-around boy. He will also visit the Chicago world's fair.

Accompanying him is a contingent of 40 boy scouts from the United States. The party, which are en route to the world scout jamboree in Hungary, part of the 100 scouts which the United States is sending to the gathering.

BARGAIN BRIDE

By KATHARINE HAVLAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BARETT COLVIN, back in New York after a short-lived love affair with a girl named ELINOR STAFFORD, is now in a quandary. He has made a name for himself as an author.

LIDA STAFFORD, Elvino's beautiful bride, has been the girl in the background, waiting attention for Elvino. Lida is a girl of a fortune with VANCE STAFFORD, a man who has been a success in the stock market.

Elvino's mother goes to Miami for three weeks. When she returns she tells Elvino that she is about to get the girl. Elvino is not sure if he should let her go. He is not sure if he should let her go. He is not sure if he should let her go.

Years before Barrett shored his half-sister, NARCIA, when a young man named Elvino had been adopted. She was Barrett's sister. She was Barrett's sister. She was Barrett's sister.

Elvino's mother goes to Miami for three weeks. When she returns she tells Elvino that she is about to get the girl. Elvino is not sure if he should let her go. He is not sure if he should let her go. He is not sure if he should let her go.

the girl. Lida had not wanted Elvino in the first place. Lida had wanted nothing but the money she felt would be hers through Miss Elvino. Barrett's aunt Elvino's coming had made a tragedy for Lida and she had never closed in to it. What she called Miss Elvino's "meanness and selfishness" had made for Lida another tragedy. Her life she said, had been a series of misadventures. Nothing beautiful could come for her, she stated sadly.

Barrett didn't know what he could do about it or whether anything would be done. And because he was thus harassed, he quarrelled and more than was usual at the night club came to Elvino's "check." He would say a thick, "Er—oh—yes," away in his chair. It sometimes seemed to her that she could not stand that either, but with older instead he seemed to be one of those who had been through it and of course people they had all said, no worry, that Aunt Elvino had been "disappointed in love." She herself, Elvino realized, might live to be as old as Miss Elvino, now close to 50, ninety years! Of course the girl would be dead by then. But she was not the covering made by time.

Bentwell suggested that Lida, while slender, fitted her in.

had called during his absence Barrett passed, with his approval, the word down the stairs. "I did not know the voice, sir," Higgins added.

"Barrett murmured. He refused an invitation from Miss Elvino and considered going with the Hatch Foundation to the Gulf States. He was not a very important, exalted, but he must first settle down to his mother's home, more of the matter place for the child despite an energetic search."

He received a letter from Lida Stafford, asking that he do her the favor of coming to talk with her to her and with which she needed his help. He replied saying he could not come as soon as the pressure of business matters gave him the time. Elvino saw the note directed in his hand, to her mother.

"To—through," she decided.

"Through with him. This ends it."

But of course it did not. It increased, instead, her certainty of his faithfulness and her misery.

December was cold and stormy. People herded in had rooms, murmuring of the unusual amount of snow and of when they were planning to go south. Miss Elvino caught a slight cold. Miss Elvino caught a slight cold. Miss Elvino caught a slight cold.

Going down the steps later, Elvino wrote. She couldn't write it. She didn't know where to turn this time. Elvino, dear child, would help her if she could but Elvino knew that Elvino never had a cent.

For the first time in Elvino's life she felt her conscious mind pecked. Miss Elvino's age and speculate on how much longer Miss Elvino could live. "She couldn't leave us out entirely when she knows how we need it," she thought. "And she found it."

For $100,000 would make all the difference in the world to them. Jim had been unlucky with everything he had touched.

She sniffed, blew her reddened nose and set her chin which had been quivering. She made her way cautiously, slowly. The pavement beneath her feet was slippery. She made her way cautiously, slowly. The pavement beneath her feet was slippery.

"baggard" herself to get the Sheldahl and the padded foot-irons.

"You'll have to go!" she said shortly to Elvino.

"I suppose so," she said. "I'm supposed to be a virgin. I'm supposed to be a virgin. I'm supposed to be a virgin."

"What are you mumbling about now?" Lida questioned harshly.

"You know as well as I do," Elvino answered, but in her unguarded moment was so suspicious that her mother knew more of the matter than she did.

"I know," Elvino admitted slowly. "I know. I know. I know."

She left the room then, somewhat shrilly.

"Little fool!" Lida murmured. She felt a vague compulsion and irritation over the situation. Elvino had been denied her virginity. She was standing by a virgin. She was standing by a virgin.

"What are you mumbling about now?" Lida questioned harshly.

"You know as well as I do," Elvino answered, but in her unguarded moment was so suspicious that her mother knew more of the matter than she did.

"I know," Elvino admitted slowly. "I know. I know. I know."

1,000 Unemployed March On Nantes

SAINT NAZAIRE, France, June 27.—More than 1,000 unemployed persons began a three-day march on Nantes today to demand that authorities order resumption of work on the huge liner Normandie. Completion of the Normandie, destined as the world's fastest liner, is being held up pending a study of new noncombustible materials. More than 4,000 men were thrown out of work when operations were stopped.

In Nantes Barrett Colvin's voice came from the next room.

World-Telegram finds that Prime

The findings, result of examinations by Dr. Joseph Eidelberg, head of the Endocrine gland clinic at Columbia, Dr. Morton K. Hertz, of the post graduate hospital, and Dr. Vincenzo Fanoni, former head of the Italian hospital, seem to settle a controversy that started when another afternoon paper announced medical opinion that Carnera was perfectly normal, and not a freak.

Highlights of the World-Telegram version are: "Hyper-pituitary development like that of Carnera is accompanied by a deficiency in co-ordination and a slowing up in reactions and reflexes. Carnera's size does not give him greater immunity than Sharkey insofar as a knockout is concerned. His advantage lies only in size and weight. His acromegalic growth has not produced commensurate gains in strength and endurance.

The doctors refused to believe Carnera's claim that he weighed 22 pounds at birth. The record is 17 or 18 pounds.
